Dear Friend,

Josh Morros-Because I Can is a non-profit organization founded in Reno, Nevada. The passion and idea came from a near fatal accident I sustained in 2008.

Doctors still comment on what a miraculous recovery I have made and credit a lot to nutrition before and after the accident to where I am today. With the type of severe traumatic brain injury I sustained, 99% that survive have some sort of disability leaving 1% able to live a normal life.

Why Because I Can? As a Professional Factory Kawasaki Off-Road Racer, I was the youngest in history to go pro. Josh Morros was a name you heard often in the off-road racing world, by racing a Kawasaki 250F in the desert, breaking records by knocking bars with the big dogs in the field on larger horsepower motorcycles. Some always asked, WHY? I was always quick to reply, BECAUSE I CAN! The saying just stuck and followed with my recovery.

In 2009 I started reaching out to some youth groups just by telling my story and encouraging them to strive to always be their best. Developing a good attitude as long as they were giving 100% they would always be winners and a success in life. What matters most is everyone falls in life at one time or another, but how you get back up and go forward is what truly matters. Soon I found people reaching out for comfort, needing to understand the long and grueling recovery process from Brain Injuries. Because I Can became about giving back and inspiring.

The biggest hurdle has been the denial and lack of awareness of concussions. Our goal is to develop a hands on educational program for parents and youth to understand behaviors and signs that come along with concussion even though the individual looks normal.

Brain Injuries are a complex medical condition that creates the need for long term care or even life-long assistance, which is why we are reaching out to you for as much support as possible. All money raised at events will be used to develop programs to support, bring awareness and educate Northern Nevada Communities.

Sincerely ,

Josh Morros

NUTRITION FOR A BRAIN INJURY

Patients who survive a traumatic brain injury often face a long and challenging road to recovery as they work to restore normal vocal, ambulatory and bodily functions. Nutrition is crucial both immediately after injury and throughout the rest of your life if you have had a brain injury. Long-term management of a brain injury involves providing your body with the materials it needs to function optimally.
